The Sticky Truth about Adhesives!

When it comes to roofing products there are options available to you that are not necessarily in your best interest or the best interest of your client. There are many different adhesives available today that will adhere roofing membranes, the majority of these do not provide the long term performance expected. In several situations many of these adhesives actually are not chemically compatible to the membrane and drastically shorten the life expectancy of the membrane as shown in these pictures

RPW Associates, Inc provides you with the proper solution in today's market for the application of modular single ply membranes whether you use EPDM or PVC. Our PSR 4500 adhesive is the right choice and is used with any single ply membrane with the highest coverage per gallon available. Reducing the overall installed costs. Our one step application ensures you at least 250/ft<sup>2</sup> coverage per gallon. proSeal's PSR 4500 adhesive is an acrylic based formulation which contains no hazardous elements making it an environmentally friendly solution, which can reduce your adhesives costs by up to 50% and can improve your production time by up to 50%
